SHERRY BOSTON BIOGRAPHY

As Solicitor-General for DeKalb County, Sherry Boston oversees the prosecution of approximately 13,000 criminal misdemeanor offenses filed annually in the State Court of DeKalb County. These crimes include domestic violence, elder abuse, cruelty to children, vehicular homicide, drunk driving, stalking and harassment, trespassing, and animal cruelty. Solicitor-General Boston is recognized for working diligently to make DeKalb County even safer by preventing and deterring criminal activity through the professional and impartial prosecution of crimes. She remains committed to upholding the laws and statutes of Georgia and DeKalb County, while working closely with law enforcement and communities to develop crime prevention strategies.

Ms. Boston was appointed to the position of Solicitor-General by Governor Sonny Perdue in 2011 and was later elected without opposition in 2012. Prior to serving as Solicitor-General, Ms. Boston worked in private practice handling felony and misdemeanor cases. Ms. Boston also served as Municipal Court Judge for the City of Dunwoody where she was the first female appointed to the Court. She has also served on the DeKalb County bench as Associate Magistrate Judge and Judge pro hac vice for Records Court.

Georgia Trend magazine has repeatedly named Ms. Boston as one of "Georgia's Legal Elite," and Atlanta magazine has named her five times as a "Rising Star Super Lawyer." She was also selected by The Daily Report as one of 14 Georgia lawyers "On the Rise."

Solicitor-General Boston speaks locally and nationally on a number of issues related to law enforcement, trial work, trial tips and cross-examination. She is an instructor for Basic Litigation for the Prosecuting Attorneys' Council of Georgia.

Solicitor-General Boston is a graduate of Villanova University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Emory University School of Law.
