

Jeff received his undergraduate degree from Berry College and then a J.D. from the UGA School of Law in 2007. In 2011, while working at a civil litigation firm in Atlanta, Jeff founded Out of Darkness as a 24-7 rescue hotline for women in the sex industry. Today, Out of Darkness engages in street outreach, jail outreach, medical trainings, the 24-hour rescue hotline, and operates two safe homes for rescued women. They have helped over 800 women from across the United States.